College Captures Captured Cannon

The United States Senate by a unanimous vote last Friday, passed a bill providing for the loan to the College of William and Mary of two old cannon which was surrendered to the Continental forces by Cornwallis at Yorktown. The bill had previously passed the House on March 3 and the Senate took favorable action at the request of Senator Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia. The bill was sponsored in the House by Representative Andrew Jackson Montague, of Virginia.

According to a dispatch to the Richmond News-Leader, Mr. Wadsworth, of the committee on military affairs, in favorably reporting the bill to the House, said:

"If the desire for the guns were a mere sentiment, it might be ignored as unimportant. But teaching history to a class at William and Mary is like giving clinical instruction to a class in medicine or military instruction to a class upon a battlefield.

"It has been the effort of the College to collect and use everything connected with our history that will supplement the learning of the classroom. A professor may be dull, but he is not dull when he points out to his students the physical evidences of the events which have transpired. These guns, therefore, would have an educational value there far beyond the curiosity momentarily excited in a group of sight-seers. They would be part of the instruction."

Debating Teams Divide Honors

The two teams representing William and Mary in the Tri-State Debate with Wake Forest and the College of Charleston last Friday night divided honors, the team composed of E. C. Johnson and George Reilly winning at Wake Forest, and David George and A. J. Winder losing to Charleston here.

The subject of the debate was: "Resolved: That the United States should adopt the cabinet-parliamentary form of government."

In defeating Wake Forest, Johnson and Reilly won a verdict over one of the strongest debating teams in the South. Wake Forest has won a majority of its contests in the past few years, and during the present year has defeated some strong teams in the South.

At the time of going to press no notice had been received of the results of the contest between Wake Forest and Charleston at Charleston.

Library Closed

On account of the Spring Festival which is to be held tomorrow, May 3, the Public Library will be closed for the day.

Amer. Garden Club Guests of College

William and Mary on last Friday had the honor of entertaining the Garden Club of America, which held its annual convention in Richmond during the latter part of the week. More than 700 women were in the party which came down the James River and landed at Jamestown, later visiting Carter's Grove, Yorktown, Williamsburg and other places of historic interest.

After landing at the first permanent English settlement in America, the delegates were taken to Yorktown, every available bus from Norfolk, Newport News and other places

Blanton Drowned At Brunnoy, France

Robert Girvin Blanton, Jr., of Richmond, aged 21, was drowned last Saturday afternoon at Brunnoy, near Paris, while attempting to save the lives of four young boys whose canoe had overturned in a rapid stream.

Mr. Blanton was Instructor in English in the College of William and Mary during the session of 1922-23, having come here from the University of Virginia, where he received the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Master of Science with the class of 1922.

While connected with the faculty here Mr. Blanton was the author of several plays which won him a scholarship at Harvard University. His most conspicuous work while at William and Mary was his collection of Virginia proverbs and maxims which were published in the Richmond Times-Dispatch and which were widely read and discussed.

Leaving William and Mary last spring, Mr. Blanton went abroad in company with Reginald Kenney, a student here, intending to return to this country in the fall and enter Harvard. While in Paris he was offered a position as tutor in the Sorbonne University in Paris, and so decided to remain there and take a course in advanced French Literature. It was his intention to come home and enter Harvard next fall, to complete the work for the Ph. D. degree.

He was related to several of the

Attractive Booklet To Further Endowment

An attractive booklet entitled "The Romance and Renaissance of the College of William and Mary in Virginia," has just been issued, and will be distributed by the Board of Visitors in furthering the campaign for the Endowment Fund.

The booklet is the work of Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin, Professor of Sacred Literature and Social Ethics, who is also Director of the Endowment. The booklet contains, in addition to numerous cuts picturing the present perma-

Strong Teams Here Today And Tomorrow

Today and tomorrow bring two formidable foes to Williamsburg to meet the Indians; Richmond University plays here this afternoon on Cary Field, and the Carolina State nine will be seen in action tomorrow. The game with Richmond will be the fourth time that an Indian team has met the Spiders during the present scholastic year, while Carolina State is comparatively a newcomer on William and Mary's schedule, since their last meeting was in 1920 when the Tarheels conquered the Indians on the gridiron.

Records of the season show that William and Mary and Richmond have teams that are almost equally matched in the number of games won, but upon considering the strength of the teams played by the two institutions and their comparative scores it appears that the Indians hold the advantage. It is certain that if Coach Tasker's men display the same brand of baseball today that was shown last Saturday against Savage School, the Spiders cannot hope to win. Either Sam Creath or Henry Johnson, both Richmond aces, will be Dobson's choice for the mound. Creath proved himself invincible to the Indians last year when he gained a victory over William and Mary's famous club.

Carolina State invaded the Old Dominion last Monday with a strong squad, prepared for a sextette of games. A two day's sojourn in Lex-

Important Meeting

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the meeting of the Cotillion Club to be held next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. In addition to the election, other matters of very great importance to the Club will be discussed, and President Watkins requests that all members be present.

The orchestra for the finals has already been engaged, according to Mr. Watkins, but many of the details have not been worked out yet, and it is imperative that there be a full attendance at this meeting in order to thrash out these matters.

To Alumni Of 1891-95

Percy H. Lash, A. B., '95, wishes to meet all his classmates and friends of the period 1891 to 1895, on the campus in June. He says:

"Will the boys of that period join me there to renew our friendship of those happy days, show our love for our Alma Mater, and give unanimous appreciation to those who are guiding the College in its progress today? Let every one come, and we shall have a grand old reunion."

Girls Giving More Time To Physical Ed.

According to the officials of the Eastern Association of College Directors of Physical Education every normal American girl of the college freshman age should qualify according to the following table of physical points:

Lung capacity of 170 inches. Chest expansion of 2 feet 6 inches, ninth rib 3 feet 9 inches and a grip of 60 pounds.

Able to jump 3 feet 2 inches, throw a basketball 25 feet, run a 25-yard dash in 4 minutes 4 seconds and vault a height of 3 feet 8 inches.

Able to climb 4 feet, get a score of 6 points in the 3-foot boom for balance, be able to do a forward roll easily and get 6 points in a short day's order.

Total medical score should be 130 points, anthropometric score 18 points, motor ability score 32 points and a total score for physical efficiency 180 points out of a possible 265 points.

It is believed that soon colleges and other educational institutions will demand a standardized physical examination for entrance, just as educational qualifications are now required of students who would matriculate. The turning of the physical work into a game in which each event earns a certain mark has been eminently successful in making popular the once despised gymnasium work. Girls who were wont to crease powdered noses with wrinkles of disdain at the mention of the gymnasium now enter the work with a vim. What was a burden has become a pleasure.

being required to transport such a large crowd. Late in the afternoon, the ladies were brought back to Williamsburg where they were guided to all points of interest by students of the College. A banquet was given in the College dining hall at 7:30 o'clock and the entire party left for the convention city two hours later on a special train.

On the same day over one hundred of the delegates at Richmond made the trip to Charlottesville where they were entertained by the Albemarle Club and taken to Monticello, the famous home of Thomas Jefferson.

William and Mary profited particularly through the visit of the Garden Club, $2,000 being realized through gifts of the visitors. Mrs. Robert Bacon, of Long Island, President of the North Country Garden Club and a prominent society leader of New York, made a personal gift of $1,000.
Another gift to match this generous one was collected among the other delegates on their return to Richmond
Friday night.

With Creath on the mound for the Spiders this afternoon, the visitors will have to be considered as a worthy opponent, and one that is not to be handed the small end of the score until the last man is out. The Richmond line-up will feel the loss of their star second baseman, Bixby, who was drowned last week. Heretofore the William and Mary team has always had a slight edge on the Spiders in baseball; but this season the two teams are about on a par.

The ball team this afternoon should show that old fight, which has been so sadly lacking for the last two weeks. The punch has certainly been missing in the last few games. If Todd continues his hitting and Capt. Chandler is in the line-up, the team will have a great deal more attacking power.

* * * *

The tennis team has greatly felt the loss of Capt. Marshall in the line-up this season. Marshall is probably lost to the team for the rest of the year.

* * * *

The team playing in its own class for the first time last Saturday, against Hampden-Sidney, turned in a victory.

* * * *

The track team opened the season Wednesday with a victory over Camp Eustis. Next Tuesday the runners hold their first collegiate meet of the season, against Trinity. Last week the Richmond track team defeated the Trinity team by the score of 92 to 34. Richmond this year has the best track team in her history and the Indians are going to find a great deal of opposition on May 17th, when the dual meet comes off on Stadium Field.

* * * *

For the first time in the history of the Penn Relays, a Southern team won the national mile relay, when the Virginia quartet outclassed all rivals last Saturday, and won this event in the fast time of 3:19 1/5 an average of 49 4/5 for each man.

Savage Defeated

The Indians showed a reversal of form Saturday and handed the strong Savage Physical Educational School of New York City a 10-3 defeat. Bob Saffelle, our most dependable hurler, was master of the visitors on all occasions with the exception of the third inning when they scored their runs.

Epstein, who pitched for Savage, was hit freely by Coach Tasker's players. Todd and Parsons especially took a liking to his pitching, the former securing a triple and three singles while the latter made a double and two singles. Moss contributed the fielding feature of the day with a spectacular catch of Roberson's high fly in the seventh inning. Chalkley played a great defensive game for William and Mary.

Roberson, Burman and Shapiro accounted for the visitor's runs. Burman made three doubles at bat and played a good game in the field.

H.-Sidney Netmen Lose To Indians

Saturday the William and Mary tennis team turned in their first victory of the season. The victims were the Hampden-Sidney Tigers. The match was exceedingly close, the Indians winning three of the five matches. Pollard, playing number three singles came through with a victory when the score stood two matches for each team. Incidentally, Pollard has won three of his four matches this season, being defeated by Manning, of Virginia, only.

The day before the Hampden-Sidney match the team from Virginia defeated the local team, taking all five matches.

Summary:

Health Lectures

Mrs. Edna P. Fox, of the Virginia State Board of Health and the United States Public Health Service, will deliver an illustrated lecture on Social Hygiene in Chapel next Monday, May 5. Mrs. Fox will lecture to the women at 7 P. M. and to the men at 8:30 P. M.

This lecture will be given especially for the freshmen of the College, but all other students who are interested are invited to attend.

Council Nominees

At a meeting of the Honor Council Monday evening, the following men were nominated to compose the council for next year: Three of the seven men listed below will be elected by the student body at an election to be held later.

The nominees are as follows: F. H. Christopher, T. P. Chapman, John Marshall, V. L. Sexton, Andre Goetz, R. C. Clement and Carl Andrews.

"Late Dates"

"I'll see you John at quarter to, and Jack at half past four, And Sam will come at five o'clock, don't think I care for more. With these three dates I know that I will surely have a time, And make my trip to W. & M. a pleasure stay sublime.

"I hope that Bill won't fuss with me about so many dates, These cute boys I have to see, as they're given me a real good rush. They've given me a real good rush at both the nightly dances, Must look out, or Bill will fuss, can't take too many chances.

"Oh, Will, don't you say you want a date; I'm filled up now 'til six, I see that you just want to get me in an awful fix.

You think I'm cute, don't kid me lad, I know your kind too well, But don't forget, come down at six, be careful who you tell." —J. D.

A Fancy That Might Please If Only True

"Oh where and oh where have our little dogs gone?" everyone on the campus was singing a few days ago. The College grounds looked strange and unfamiliar without that heterogeneous crowd of frolicking dogs. Students went from building to building unaccosted by the usual retinue of playful companions. Some people thought that perhaps the faithful campus pets had overslept and would appear presently. Not a single scratch was heard on class room doors. Professors remarked on the cuts of several ambitious canine high-brows and credited them with unexcused absence.

The afternoon progressed and still no sign of the lost colony. Many rejoiced at this unexpected relief from the dog past, but still more were overtaken with worry and grief.

One class sent expressions of sympathy to their professor whose dog was among the missing. The professor himself seemed deeply concerned over Teddy's disappearance; he had spent countless time and energy trying to train him, although Teddy desperately refuses to assume the characteristic pose when he hears "his master's voice."

The departure of little dog Dammit was a great inconvenience to the students who include his name in the greater part of their conversation.

Toward evening much curiosity had been aroused. Was this a dog-catcher's trick, or had some malicious rascal poisoned the College dogs? A searching party was formed to secure information and report all clues which might lead to discovery.

The following item appeared in the Daily News: "Lost, strayed or stolen, about a dozen nondescript dogs from the campus of the College of William and Mary. Almost any student can identify them. Reward for immediate return to the College Dog Department."

The hunting expedition didn't have far to go. Walking down Frances Street the diligent searchers halted in amazement before the great iron gate of the asylum. There were the same dogs on another campus. They seemed perfectly at home leaping and running at the wild calls of the inmates. The students established their claim at an office where one of the keepers explained the mystery.

It seemed that one of the patients who possessed affection for dogs kidnapped every dog he encountered. The night before, with the aid of Old Mack, the cane-maker, he had persuaded the dogs to visit Eastern State.

A joyous barking announced the return of the successful posse. The insane Pied Piper received great publicity and was the subject of several parodies in verse and reversions in prose. Although the dogs have never recovered from their demoralizing effects, the campus continues to tolerate them, still hoping they will escape permanent residence in Eastern State.

nent and temporary buildings comprising the College plant, architect's drawings of proposed buildings, including a drawing of the proposed remodelled Main building, The William Barton Rogers Memorial Science Hall, the proposed Phi Beta Kappa Memorial building, and the George Preston Blow Memorial gymnasium now under construction.

In addition to the drawings and photographs, the booklet contains air views of the College, proposals for a Memorial Chimes Tower, a new lecture room building, to be known as Washington Hall, a wall around the campus, and for additional dormitories with the suggested names of Randolph Hall and Evelyn Byrd Hall.

Suggestions are made for various endowments, including the endowment of a Library Training School, Lectureship Foundations, a Faculty pension endowment, funds for the endowment of the Marshall-Wythe School of Citizenship and Government, a school of Biblical Literature and Religious Education, a school of Economics and Business Administration, and for other schools and purposes.

There is contained also in the booklet a "Partial Roll of Fame," on which appear the names of many persons conspicuous in government, education and military activities who have in one way or another been connected with the College.

The present edition of this booklet, which is limited, was issued by the Board of Visitors, and will be distributed to the extent of the edition to all those interested in the work of the Endowment Campaign Committee. Students and friends of the College who know of any one who might be interested in this work should turn in names and addresses of such persons to Dr. Goodwin as soon as possible so that the booklet may be mailed to them.

ODE TO A KITTY

Spring has come again so bright,
In Old Williamsburg.
But youth and maid are in a plight,
In Old Williamsburg.
For relentless "Kitty" and Griffin too,
Still swoop around with the old gum shoe,
To see what they can get on you—
In Old Williamsburg.

Love is looked upon askance,
In Old Williamsburg.
Dan Cupid hasn't got a chance,
In Old Williamsburg.
For if one leaves the ordered way
To paths that lovers are wont to stray,
You bet that there'll be "L" to play—
In Old Williamsburg.

So list not to the call of Spring,

In Old Williamsburg.

For love's indeed a vulgar thing,
In Old Williamsburg.

A maid with a man should never be,
And so to protect his purity,
They put a kitty up each tree—
In Old Williamsburg.

Tidewater Women Met Here Saturday

Over four hundred women attended the second annual assembly of "Tidewater Virginia Women," which was held in the College chapel last Saturday in celebration of the 317th anniversary of the coming of the Cavaliers to Virginia and the 305th anniversary of the First Legislative Assembly in America.

Mrs. Frantz Naylor, speaker for 1924, presided over the assembly and gave a brief outline of the purposes and aims of the organization. Prominent among the speakers of the day were Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, whom Mrs. Naylor introduced as "the foremost women of Virginia," Mr. Barton Meyers, Dr. Charles R. Grandy, and Dr. John Garland Pollard.

Mr. Meyers read an excellent paper on the historical associations of Tidewater Virginia and the efforts made by women of the district to preserve ancient relics. At the conclusion of his reading, Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin moved that the paper be printed in the William and Mary historical magazine and the motion was unanimously adopted by the assembly.

Dr. Pollard in his address emphasized the duties and privileges of the American citizen, explaining what the government does for its people and how vast sums of money collected from the public are disposed of through governmental machinery. He told of the need of religious principles in the work of being a citizen, not that the church and State should ever be united, but that the church should teach fidelity to the duties of citizenship. "Politics are dirty," he said, "because the citizen fails to clean them. What we need is a political house cleaning and woman's job is to do the cleaning."

Following the morning session in the chapel, the assembly was given a banquet in the College dining hall, during which several prominent speakers were heard on subjects relating to the work of the Tidewater Women.

STRONG TEAMS HERE TODAY AND TOMORROW

ington brought them a brace of victories, with V. M. I. and Washington and Lee bowing before the slugging Tarheel nine. The Carolinians have shown a marked ability of amassing hits in every game that they have played, and their pitching staff, led by the veteran Allen, is one of the best in the Old North State. But the effect of State's long trip will be telling upon them when they appear in tomorrow's game, giving the Indians an advantage, which fact coupled with airtight playing, will no doubt add another scalp to the Indians rapidly increasing string.

Coach Tasker will probably use

Saffelle, Richmond and Taylor to hold the invaders in check, and Captain Chandler will be seen in his old position perfecting the Indian line-up.

COLLEGE CAPTURES CAPTURED CANNON

The cannon are now on the parade grounds at Fort Monroes and it is not known when they will be transferred or whether there will be any ceremonies to mark the fulfillment of the congressional resolution.

HENRY CAVENDISH

1731-1810

English chemist and physicist, of whom Biot said, "He was the richest of the learned and the most learned of the rich. His last great achievement was his famous experiment to determine the density of the earth."

He first made water from gases

Henry Cavendish, an eccentric millionaire recluse, who devoted his life to research, was the discoverer of the H and the O in H₂O. In fact he first told the Royal Society of the existence of hydrogen.

He found what water was by making it himself, and so became one of the first of the synthetic chemists.

Cavendish concluded that the atmosphere contained elements then unknown. His conclusion has been verified by the discovery of argon and other gases.

The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have found a use for argon in developing lamps hundreds of times brighter than the guttering candles which lighted Cavendish's laboratory.

In this age of electricity the General Electric Company has blazed the trail of electrical progress. You will find its monogram on the giant generators used by lighting companies; and even on the lamps and little motors that mean so much in the home. It is a symbol of useful service.

Reilly Becomes New Head of Y. M. C. A.

Officers for the College session of 1924-25 were elected Monday afternoon by the executive council of the Young Men's Christian Association meeting in the "Y" room of the Main building. The new officers are as follows:

President—George W. Reilly.
Vice-President—J. J. Ambler.
Secretary—J. L. Daly.
Treasurer—W. H. Gravely, Jr.
Editor of the Handbook—R. Lomax Wells.

The Y. M. C. A. will feel a distinct loss due to the fact that three of its past officers and strongest workers have stated their intention of not returning to College next year. David C. George, who has been president of the organization for three years, having assumed that office in 1921, will be lost through graduation. The "Y" has experienced a remarkable growth during his period of administration, and has been made a real power on the campus.

J. M. Hord and F. P. Thornton are leaving College after this quarter. Both have given a long period of service and deserve the highest commendation for their faithful work.

Meeting Postponed

The Whitehall Literary Society postponed its French program until tomorrow night. The program will be an open one and every one is invited to attend. A short business meeting was held last Saturday.

During the rest of the year the Society will take up France, Spain, Arabia, the Norse countries, Japan, and China, considering their literature as a branch of world literature, the music, dances, religion and customs of the people.

"Scaramouche."

This picture presents an engrossing visualization of the early part of the French Revolution. It is a picture conceived and executed on a gigantic scale, and yet so eloquent in story interest, so clearly defined in characterization and incident as to be understood by anyone who has reached the age of reason. The pomp and ceremony of the aristocracy, the contrast and color, the varied conflicts, the sweep and movement of the story—all these attributes and qualities are incorporated. Ingram has a story to tell and he tells it in a straightforward manner. The settings are eloquent—the best of them featuring the hall of deputies and the interior of the theatre when Scaramouche defies the aristocrats and lights the torch of revolution. Ramon Navarro, Lewis Stone and Alice Terry in the cast.

WEDNESDAY—MAY 7

"Children of Dust."

"Marry me," he pleaded. "I can give you everything to make you happy." She almost loved him—but there was another whose love called from behind the fence that separates rich and poor. A drama of hearts and fences, made by the director of "Humoresque." Johnny Walker, Pauline Garon and Lloyd Hughes in the cast.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY
MAY 8 and 9

Mary Pickford in "The Love Light."

The World's Sweetheart, with all of her glorious curls, her smile and cheerful spirit. "The Love Light" has unusual interest owing to the fact that it was worked out while Miss Pickford was on her honeymoon. Miss Pickford has surrounded herself with a splendid cast, and the production is lavish in its setting, and wonderful photography.

SATURDAY—MAY 10

John Gilbert in "Just Off Broadway."
